

Dear ,

We couldn't save Owen.

He put up a tough fight. He was a strong little boy, and had a strong and loving family around him, but his cancer was too much. It took his ability to walk, then it took his eyesight. Less than five months after he was diagnosed, cancer took Owen. He was 3 years old.

I've been practicing medicine for decades, witnessing triumph and tragedy. Losing a patient is something you never get used to.

It never gets easier to see a child taken before their life has even really begun. To see a family lose a mom or a dad, a sister or brother ... of any age. No. It never gets easier.

We've made so much progress against cancer, even in just the last 12 months. ~~We're so close to making cancer survivable~~ in more cases than ever before. But we're not close enough. We weren't close enough to save Owen.

We have to keep fighting. We have no other option. That's why we need your help so badly. And that's why I ask you to renew your support now.

Sincerely,

Stephen E. Sallan, MD
