Short Stack Sundae

Here's a little trick Jeni taught us: When you've got about a third of a pint left, turn those last few bites into a showstopping sundae. Just toss toppings—sauce, nuts, fruit, whatever's on hand—right into the pint. We call it Last Scoop Sundaes, or the ice cream equivalent of looking at a glass half full.

Our current obsession: Turning our new morning ice cream into a savory-sweet breakfast sundae. (You heard that right.)

Behold, the Short Stack Sundae — Maple Soaked Pancakes ice cream with an extra maple syrup drizzle and crispy bacon sprinkles. Whipped cream for good measure. And a side of mini pancakes that also double nicely as a spoon.
