

Did you know that roughly one in 10 PETA donors is missing an easy way to help their gift do even more for animals?

You may be able to double—or even triple—the impact of your gift through matching-gift offers available from your employer, and some companies will even match the donations of spouses, retirees, or volunteers. Matching gifts give critical support to PETA's lifesaving work for animals, and it only takes two steps to get started:

1. Visit PETA.org/MatchingGifts and enter your company's name to see if your employer matches donations, or check with your company's human resources department if it isn't listed.
2. If your company matches, submit a match request on their website, or complete their paper form and mail it to:
